American Watch Winder.

SOMETHING NEW

And worthy of the Consideration of Every One who possesses a Watch.

THE AMERICAN WATCH WINDER, as will be seen by the above cut, is a device for winding the watch, and does not affect the action of the watch in any way. It is durable and will last for many years. It is simple and can be applied to the case of the watch in a few minutes, and when so applied it becomes a part of the watch case and cannot be detached for the purpose of winding the watch, as it is permanently fastened.

It is a failure to the watch, if the winding cannot be done without leaving the case open to the light. Avoid the necessity of handling up the key and the perplexity which will result from it.

In fact the more first and last reasons which can be given against this well known and long used method of winding watches, the more reasons will be found for the use of the American Watch Winder.

It tends to keep the watch clean, as it prevents the dust from entering the case at the key hole.

It tends to keep the watch in order, as it prevents the key and the perplexity which will result from it.

In fact the more we breathe any more, and VEGETINE is sacred to me, and I do feel to thank God for the time it has led me to so good a medicine as VEGETINE, and I feel that it is one of the best medicines for a general tonic, striking feeble and relaxed organs with renewed vigor. I take the VEGETINE, and I feel assured them it is one of the best medicines I ever used.

MRS. J. T. BUTLER.

VEGETINE.

RELIABLE EVIDENCE.

DEAR SIR—I will cheerfully add my testimony to the great number you have already received in favor of your great and good medicine VEGETINE, for I do think enough cannot be said in its favor, for I have been troubled with the liver in the worst sense, caused a total bad blood, which settled in my head and caused me to suffer untold misery. I was induced to try the VEGETINE, and I feel that it is one of the best medicines for a general tonic, striking feeble and relaxed organs with renewed vigor. I take the VEGETINE, and I feel assured them it is one of the best medicines I ever used.

MRS. J. T. BUTLER.

Vegetine.

VEGETINE will remove the blood, give tone to the stomach, restore healthful vitality to the digestive organs, and thus enable them to act on the blood and do away with the cause of disease. Being entirely vegetable, it is impossible for any injurious effects to follow its use. Its ingredients are known to all druggists, and its formula is published around each bottle. Its remarkable success has led many to imitate it, but it has no equal. It is the best blood purifier yet discovered.

Yours respectfully, JOSEPH H. BUTLER.

MR. STEVENS—

DEAR SIR—For the benefit of others afflicted with Kidney Complaint and Debility, I will state my case. I was troubled with the above complaint for the past two years, and had tried many remedies and doctored with several physicians, but got no relief. I was induced to try VEGETINE, and after taking a few bottles I found relief, and by the use of six bottles was entirely cured. I have since enjoyed the best of health, and have gained in flesh from 104 pounds to 145 pounds. I have no hesitancy in recommending VEGETINE to all suffering with Kidney Complaint, Debility or Nervousness, as I believe it will cure them, as it has me.

Yours truly, MRS. J. T. BUTLER.

HARWICH MASS., Sept 21 1875

MR. H. R. STEVENS—

DEAR SIR—I feel it my duty, as well as a pleasure, to say a word in favor of your valuable medicine VEGETINE. My wife had been troubled with a humor for several years, which she inherited from her parents. She tried several physicians and a great many different kinds of medicine, but got no relief. She was so much emaciated that she had almost given up hope of ever getting any better. Hearing of the VEGETINE we resolved to try once more, and after commencing using it last March and has been improving in health ever since. From 104 pounds she has increased to 145 pounds. Having gained 41 pounds in seven months, I will say it is the best medicine I ever saw. I also believe that VEGETINE has been the means of saving her life, and that she cannot say too much in its praise. If these few lines will be the means of benefiting any poor sufferer, you are at liberty to do so. She has taken three bottles of the VEGETINE, and is still using it, and I can truthfully say that I consider it a perfect purifier.

Yours respectfully, JOSEPH H. BUTLER

CANDIDATE WILLIAMS

We print elsewhere the queer letter of acceptance given out by Mr Williams, the Democratic nominee for Governor. It is open to damaging comment from almost any political stand-point, but as the Democratic papers are entitled to priority in paying their respects to their candidate, we defer our remarks to give our Democratic fellow-citizens time to digest the two columns and a half of denunciation which the Commercial bestows on the candidate for attempting to wriggle on the "Fraud" platform

HONEST MONEY

We call the special attention of our readers to the able presentation of the financial issues made in Gen. Woodford's speech at Cincinnati. It is eagerness to go to the polls and weakens the duty of honest voters that is all.

VERMONT REPUBLICANS

The editor of the N. Y. Tribune has been travelling with the Presidential party in Vermont, and Mr. Smalley the special correspondent of that paper has also been with him taking notes. The friendliness of that paper to the Administration gives significance to the following statements of its correspondent with reference to the opposition to the policy in Vermont.

While, according to the weighty testimony and much more that I have heard corroborating it, the Vermont Republicans are a unit as to the President's great title to his office, they are very much divided in their opinion on his policy. A majority oppose the Southern policy, and if a convention were to be held now, the opposition to his course toward South Carolina and Louisiana would be nearly as strong as it was in Maine last week. Last Spring there were probably four-fifths opposed to it. The Republicans here have always been extremists in their views on the Southern question. They distrust the South, and fear the consequences of re-entry to power. Their sympathies with the negroes are still active, and their war-memories do not fade out as rapidly as those of the people along the borders between the once-hostile sections. For the most part they are ardent admirers of Mr. Blaine, and this position he has taken has great influence in shaping their views. Every week of continued tranquility in the South and of added reflection on the part of these disaffected Republicans wears away their numbers, but all my information leads to the opinion that they are still in a majority. The party in this State may be classified into three elements—those who denounce the Southern policy as a surrender to the rebels; those who do not approve it, but are waiting to see how it will work out before taking any decided stand, and those who endorse it as a necessity of the situation, or a wise thing per se, or both. All three classes are, however, copious of keeping the party intact and in sustaining the President as its head, against the assaults of the Democrats.

Senator Edmunds says that the feeling against the Southern policy is not nearly as injurious to the Republican organization as that about the order to office-holders to abstain from active politics. That order does not commend itself to the judgment of the average Vermont Republican. He knows nothing by experience about rings of federal officials interfering in State politics. There has been no Custom House manipulation of conventions here. It is a rural community, where there are few United States offices that pay for the labor they involve. It seems natural to him that the men who do the hard work of politics should have the offices, and should keep on doing the hard work after they get them. He sees no propriety in [turning a good man out of a two or three hundred dollar Post-office because he is a Chairman of a town committee. As a rule the postmasters here are members of the local Republican committees, because they live at central points and are usually men of influence among their neighbors.

THE VALLEY OF THE ROSES. The valley south of the Balkan, where General Ghourke lost 3,000 men in retreating before the columns of Suleiman, is the centre of the most remarkable species of horticulture in the world—ottar of roses. The Mussulman tradition assigns the origin of the rose to the night of Mahomet's journey to Heaven. The white roses sprang from the drops of sweat which fell from the forehead of the prophet himself in the toilsome ascent; the sweat of Borak, the miraculous animal he rode, gave birth to the yellow ones; while the celestial drops which fell from Gabriel were the source of the red roses. The appearance of the neighborhood of Kasanlik would favor a suspicion that the heavenward journey must have sorely tried the Archangel; and Count von Moltke, who was well acquainted with Bulgaria and the Balkans, has styled the valley of the Tunja "the Cashmere of Europe, the Turkish Gulistan and land of roses." Roses are not grown there in isolated patches, but in fields and ridges, as if they were no better than potatoes.

The Democrats of Kemper county, Mississippi, have nominated the leader of the assassins of the Chisholm family for Sheriff. This is in consistency with the State Democratic Convention which nominated Gov. Stone for re-election. Surely if the chief magistrate who declined to take any measures for bringing these murderers to justice is fit to preside over the State, the leader of the band is fit to preside over the county.—Providence Journal.

Pennsylvania was saved, from anarchy or mob rule by the regular army within a month. Wednesday night the Democratic State Convention denounced the army as perilous to liberty. In this, however, the Convention was no more damagogical than in other parts of the platform.

We would mildly suggest to Bro. Nott that while he is grinding custom-Loose and a volley-paper he can hardly have time to supervise our columns efficiently.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr. Hayes has relieved the South of Bayonne-rule, is the burden of the Radical song. Well, suppose he has; what of it? Forsooth, is this any reason that we should lawn at his feet and repudiate those splendid principles the reinauguration of which by the honest masses forced him to the front? Does his acute reading of the inevitable justify us in ignoring those wonderful manfully by us in the hour of our direst affliction and becoming pandereers to fraud.—Richmond (Va.) Enquirer.

"When Secretary Evarts is at home in Vermont he sleeps on his left side. When he is at home in New York he sleeps on his right side. When he is at home in Washington he sleeps on his back.—Ex. When he has coffee at any home he tries to sleep on his chin and toes.—N. Y. Herald.

The Charleston News and Courier thinks that if Mr. Key was taken into the Cabinet as a Southern Democrat, of indisputable record, it is time to put him out, as a "pronounced rebel" being scarcely disliked in the North and openly avowed in the South.—Boston Herald.

Why does the Republican Union Reunionary of the platform of the St. Louis Convention that resolution which denounces the resumption clause of the act of 1875, and demands its repeal? That resolution as well as the others was reaffirmed by the Democratic State Convention of Maine. Does the Argus endorse or denounce it?—Portland Press.

Senator Conkling is a very gravel man; but he is credited with a joke. His friend Naval Officer Cornell, still holds his office, dwelling and his position on the political committee, and the action to do to the end. Publicly Senator Conkling never has advised his friend in this matter. On the other day the Senator sent Mr. Cornell a big bouquet in the center of which was a bottle of nitro-glycerine warranted to explode. Ridiculous to Republicanism is characteristic of Conkling, he intends to have a voice in New York politics whether he holds official office or not.—Traveller.

President Hayes has had a splendid reception in the East, but not so much on account of his policy as from the fact that he is the President of the United States.—Philadelphia North American.

The "Sabering men" of Cincinnati have put up and nominated a horny-handed United States Commissioner for Governor of Ohio, a brawny newspaper editor for State Treasurer, a bony and sinewy cotton-holder and ex-Republican politician for School Commissioner, and another Thor-bestrewed ward manager for Clerk of the Supreme Court. Our "laboring" friends had better pack their flats and try again. They should not go forth to the battle mounted on a set of old war-horses, who would play at the sight of a sawhorse or an anvil.—N. Y. World.

Alluding to the recent speech of Secretary Sherman, the Albany Journal says:

We can understand how the Republicans who thanks Hayes should have recognized Packard, may also hold that Grant should have recognized him. But we expect comprehend the logic which holds that Grant should have recognized him and that Hayes should not.

MR. WILLIAMS' LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

THE NOTIFICATION:

PORTLAND, Me., Aug 14, 1877.

Hon Joseph H. Williams:—

DEAR SIR:—The undersigned, a Committee of the Democratic State Convention, held in Portland this day to nominate a candidate for Governor, to be voted for by the electors of the State at the next annual election of State officers, are instructed to notify you that you have been unanimously selected by said Convention for said office, and to request from you a reply to the notification. We are also instructed to transmit to you a copy of the resolution of the Convention, which we do herewith.

With sentiments of high regard we remain,

RICHARD D. RICE,
EDMUND WILSON,
ARTHUR SEWALL,
Committee.

THE CANDIDATE'S REPLY.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 20, 1877.

Gentlemen:—I have received [illegible] notification addressed to me as the nominee of the Democratic State Convention of Portland on the [illegible] day of August instant, informing me that the said convention had selected me to be the candidate for Governor at the approaching election of State officers, and transmitting to me a copy of the resolutions adopted by that Convention.

For several years past it has appeared to me to be eminently wise that the platform of the Democratic party upon that subject. The entire series of resolutions therefore, has my unqualified approval.

I have thus responded to the resolutions of the Convention, and signified my acceptance of their nomination. Should a majority of the electors call upon me to serve them, I shall be most happy to study and promote the welfare and prosperity of the whole State; happy, too, if I might be instrumental in aiding the Democratic party to recover the prestige of former days, and revive the memory of its ancient renown.

I have the honor to remain,
Your Obedient Servant,
JOSEPH H. WILLIAMS.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS AND CONVENTION.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier.

The Republican caucus in Bath was held Wednesday evening, Wm. Rice, Esq. chairman and J. M. Hayes, Secretary. The principal interest was given by an intention to press an indorsement of the President's policy, one friend of that movement making it his business while distributing votes to keep voters that the "policy" was the only question. There was also a contest for the office of Register of Deeds, the friends of one candidate being nearly all on the "policy" ticket. The whole number of votes cast was 137, necessary for a choice 69. The ticket headed by Gen. Thos. W. Lyon with 22 other delegates was chosen by 87 votes against 49 for Edwin Reed and others on the "policy" ticket. The caucus adjourned at 12 minutes past eight.

The County Convention organized Thursday forenoon in City Hall with Geo. Barrows, of Topsham, chairman, and F. W. Carr, of Bowdoinham, secretary. 62 delegates being present. Nominations were made as follows: State Senator, Wm. Rogers, of Bath, 30 votes out of 57; County Commissioner, F. J. Parks, of Phippsburg, 34 out of 60; Register of Deeds, Wm. E. Higgins, of Bath, 36 out of 59; County Treasurer, Wm. B. Taylor, of Bath, by acclamation. After choosing a County Committee the Convention adjourned at 11:55 without considering resolutions of any kind.

GENERAL GRANT IN LONDON.

Mr. W. Bond writes to the N. Y. Tribune:—Some of General Grant's countrymen seem to have been rather a good deal or less where ever good his visit has done. Ridiculous and unscrupulous exhibition may have come such effect but the line might decently be drawn somewhere. I quoted an extract from what purported to be an Englishman of distinction, among other precious bits of impossible gossip, how General Grant was with difficulty prevented from leading his arm in the drawing-room of the Princess of Wales. I should be slow to believe that any Englishman of respectability, to say nothing of distinction, had written that. It does not reach the level which would entitle it to contradiction. I saw something and heard a great deal of General Grant's genealogy, the rather trying ordeal which he wears through in London. At that I saw and heard well. No credible bit of the anxiety about precedence which was displayed in my behalf created amusement, but it became known that he steadfastly cared little or nothing about the solemnities of etiquette, and the duration did not fall upon him. His manliness and simplicity of character, his consideration for others, his unostentatious demeanor, shown when were seen of all men. Very likely he missed a point or two of drawing-room ceremonial, but such tact as is reproduced in the letter I refer to starts not from the drawing-room but from the servants' hall. I see also it was weekly journal which prides itself on its propriety, a reputation of the assertion that invitations to dinner were solicited by Mr. Pierrepont for Gen. Grant. This assertion had been contradicted on the authority, and the contradiction published in New York some time before the Nation gave fresh currency to the scandal.

NEW MAGAZINES.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE for September is distinguished not only by the beauty of its illustrations—of which there are nearly one hundred—but the interest which attaches to every article in its contents, but also by its remarkable variety—touching upon every field with which it is possible for a magazine to concern itself For lovers of natural scenery there are the admirably well illustrated papers on Prince Edward Island and Mount Shasta—the latter being a description by John Muir of a snow storm on the top of the mountain especially interesting to science readers, while it is full of striking incidents and effective pictures covering every phase of Mount Shasta scenery The scientific reader has also Dr John W Draper's exceedingly interesting paper on thermometer with numerous illustrations For those interested in art there is Mrs Helen S Conant's well considered and entertaining paper on the Domestic and Artistic Life of Japan, with several attractive engravings In peculiarly timely are the three papers devoted to commercial and industrial interests The first of these, entitled The Building of a Ship, has beautifully illustrated articles not only explaining every process suggested by the title but also investing the subject with the poetic associations inseparably connected with the greatest commercial agent on this continent Edward Howland's thoughtful paper entitled A Railroad Study will commend itself to every reader as appropriate to the present crisis, bringing prominently in view the often forgotten interest of the stockholders and agricultural producers in connection with the railroad In a brief paper entitled American Workmen from Foreign Points of View the Rev Thomas S Dixon presents some facts and surprising deductions they are gratifying All readers who are interested in our educational progress will find two very suggestive and instructive papers in this number On common sense in Dress by Horace E Scudder In entitled A Group of Classical School, and In Illustrated Examinations in detail the work which has been, and is being done at Phillips Academy, Andover Massachusetts Phillips Exeter Academy, in New Hampshire and the Adams Academy, at Quincy Massachusetts A second paper in the October number will in the same way treat the Boston Public Latin School, Williston Seminary at Easthampton Massachusetts and St Paul's School, at Concord New Hampshire Another excellent paper by Miss Anna C. Brackett, discusses the comparative efficiency of large and small schools The Historical paper of the number is devoted to General Stark and the Battle of Bennington and is charmingly illustrated. Two articles of especially literary interest are contributed, Tom Moore in America by Benson J Lossing, and Waifs from Motley's Pen by Park Benjamin, Dr The latter contains a hitherto unpublished letter, of a very remarkable character written by Motley just after Polk's election to the Presidency For readers of fiction there are four fresh chapters of Blackmore's powerful novel Lorna; a humorous illustrated story entitled Shallows by Mr F F Corbett, Mo, and by I A Mooney, and A Visit to Country House by Annie I Howells Two beautifully illustrated poems are contributed—All, by Mrs Harriet Prescott Spofford, illustrated by Fredericks and The Pastor's Reverie, by Rev Washington Gladden, illustrated by Abbey There is also a beautiful anonymous sonnet A Late Wild Rose

ST NICHOLAS FOR SEPTEMBER is brimful of youthfulness and life and starts the youngsters off with a bound into the new school year. The frontispiece is a wonder of spirited execution, and the first article, "Young Folks' Fun in Central Park," from the pen of Mr Charles Barnard with pictures by Kelley, sustains and adds to its exhilarating effect George MacDonald follows with the first half of a charmingly simple story of Scottish shepherd life, marked by his characteristic touches, and flashes of insight, and carrying an admirable lesson. The little poem, "A Buttercup," has a cheery heartiness about it that corresponds with the sunny hue of its subject. Mr. Howard Pyle, in both the text and silhouette illustrations of "Drummer Fritz and His exploits" treats the youngster to a rare and jolly feast of extravagant adventure; and Joel Stacy comes forward with some funny verses explaining a picture of the "Fair Mudded Men who Walked to Donahau." Olive Thorne has a capital sketch of child-life in the little paper entitled "Robbie Talks," and Mr. Wm M. F. Round introduces a lively and well-illustrated account of the reception of "An American Circus in Brittany"—the museum of fossil customs and ideas. Professor Proctor, with the aid of diagrams and maps, tells the secrets of the "Dipper" and the appearance of the Stars for the month; Ina Carol has a brief but pleasant article on "Thistle-pulls," with an exquisitely executed illustration; the bushy-tailed favorite of the autumn woods, under the name of "Panchy," frisks about and travels long stationary journeys, as related by Mrs. Frances M. Lathrop; and Mr. Frank R. Stockton delightfully combines amusement and shrewd counsel in a life-like account of "How I went a-Drumming," the article being accompanied by a capital picture of the "Drum." The very little folks are provided with their share of delights, and the departments "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," "Young Contributors," and "Letter-Box," are unusually bright, varied and interesting. This admirable number of St Nicholas again reveals the old Saint's love of youth and his desire to deepen its joys, instruct its enthusiasms, and widen its views

ON THE ROAD DOWN HILL.
BY ROBT. C. B. [illegible]

Since the world began, there was never a man
Who suffered half the ill
Of the useless waste in the world's hard race
Upon the road down hill.

"He is going!" they say, "who down and up
So matter, indeed, how fast.
Such hill down with a go and a frown,
He'll reach the bottom at last.

"Give him nuisance a scornful glance—
The pitiful wretch indeed!
Spare a word for pity uttered
Have we, though sore his need

"Curse surely should be for such as he
No aid to help him rise,
Push him down with a curse and a frown,
And trample him where he lies!"

Ah! we might if we would, and we nobly should
With sympathy kind and true.
The courage lend to his fainting heart
That brightens life's path anew

As the adage doth go, we may plainly show
Life is a friend indeed
Who exchanges still through every ill
Truth love and friendship need."
